No one is there to save her, including the medical staff. Maya gives her body to the nurses so they can perform a surgery that will save her life. When she wakes up, she is pregnant. She is horrified that her doctors let her go through this. Instead of taking responsibility, they blame her and push her away. She falls into a depression so deep she hides herself in the asylum. When Maya comes to, she sees that the doctors have been stealing money from the patients. She steals the money and leaves the asylum. When she gets home, her husband is not there. She runs away from home to find her husband. After being chased by the police, she runs into a man. They have a consensual sex. Later, the police come to arrest him, but Maya jumps out and he is not hurt. When Maya realizes she has been raped, she cuts her hair. She sleeps on the street. In the morning, she finds her husband and leaves with him.
